

OPERATION TITAN

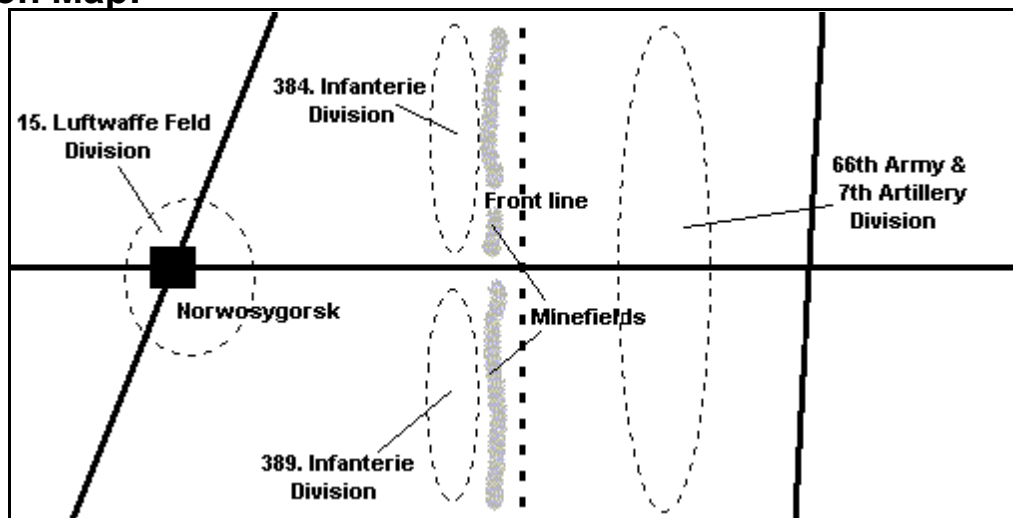

Soviet Briefing

General situation report:

In the aftermath of the Battle of Stalingrad the German forces facing you have been forced to withdraw westward into new defensive positions. They are demoralised and have little fight left in them. STAVKA has decided to mount a series of co-ordinated attacks along a wide front to push them further back and to break through the defensive barrier so that the enemy's front-line units can be surrounded and destroyed. Your own troops are battle-hardened and have been re-equipped since taking part in the battles around Stalingrad.
